

Friend Finder StoryBoard

By Stephon Johnson

Having nothing today do again on another Friday night in his Apartment, Mike Michael realized that it was time for him to get some friends. "I can't be lonely anymore".

He decided to open the Friend Finder app and logins in. After Mike logins in, the apps shows other users within his location. This makes Mike happy.

Mike continues to dive into the app and then finds out that the locations of other users also shows how similar their interests are to his.

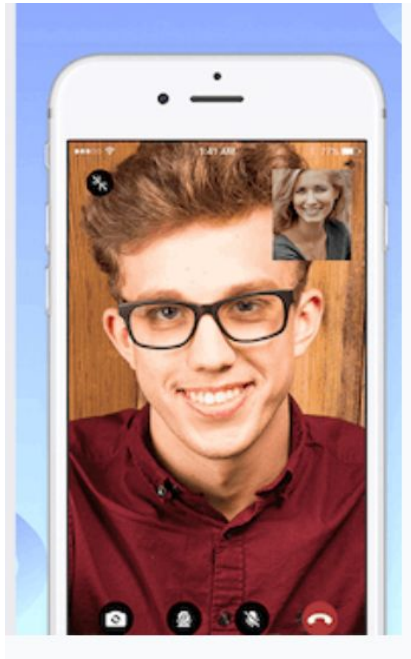

He then finds a friend with a 99% match as him and they only live 15 miles away. Mike chats with them and sets up an event for them to meet. Mike is finally no longer lonely.

It was a lovely Friday in Columbia, South Carolina. Alejandra, however, was not in a lovely mood. She was incredibly bored after she got off work and needed something to do

She remembered that her friends had found this app that allowed her to match with possible friends and had date ideas for a night on the town, so she downloaded it

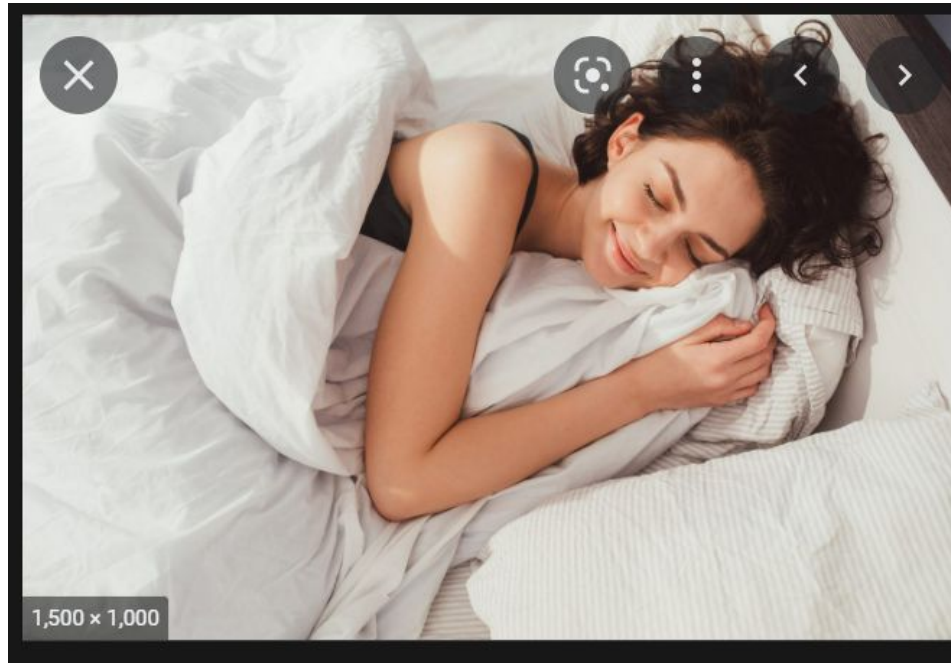

After only a couple of hours, she matched with her first friend: Caucasian Male!

They found a music festival an hour away that neither of them had known about on the app. Tickets were sold at the door and super cheap. They had a great time!

Afterwards, they enjoyed a fancy, perfectly platonic dinner at a restaurant near the venue. The food was delicious, just like the app said it was/

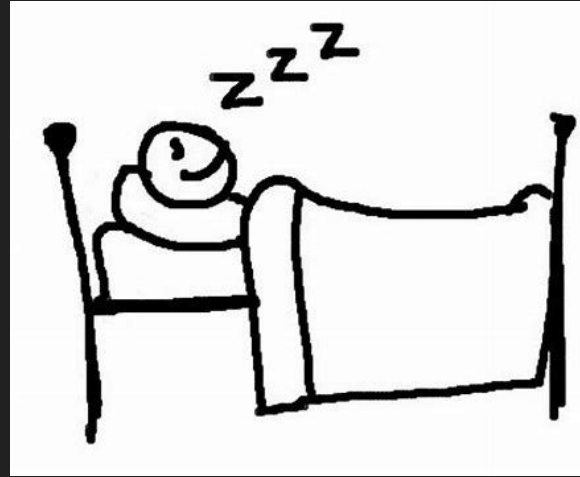

Alejandra went to bed that night stoked to get back on the app and have a great time tomorrow!

Tommy Twing just moved to a new city and doesn't know anybody. Everyday after work he is bored out of his mind not having anyone to do something with.

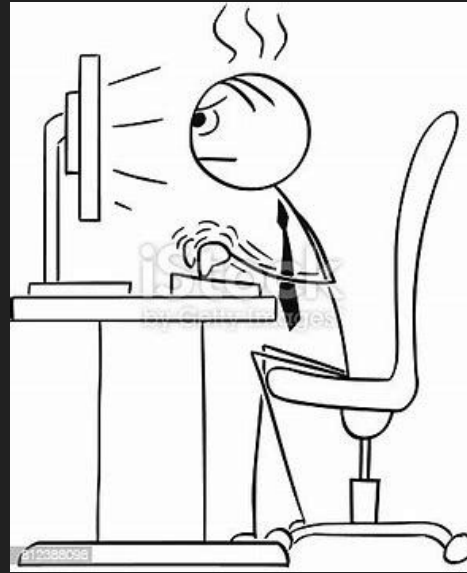

He spends most of his time working from home, and when he is not working he is playing on his computer alone.

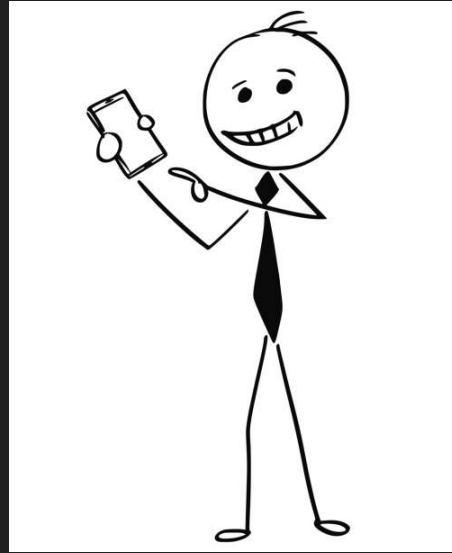

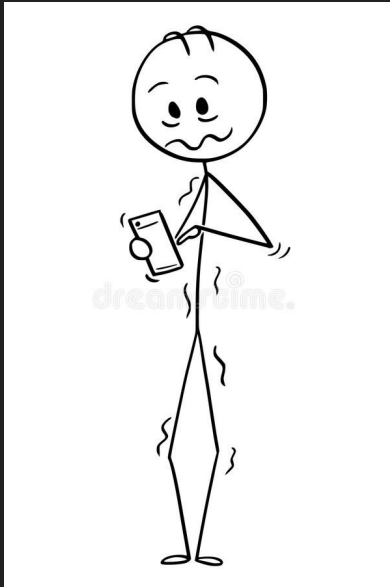

Working from home he has little personal interaction with other people which causes him to get nervous and anxious when he communicates with others.

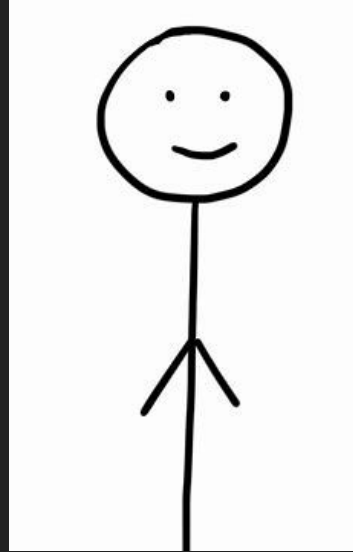

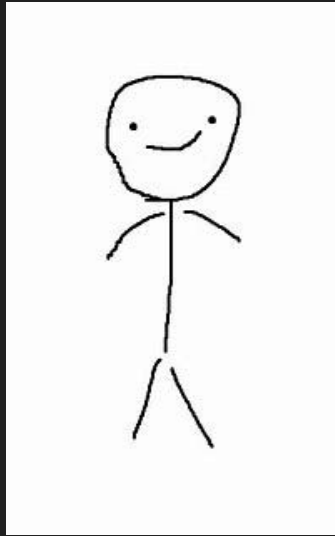

Tommy gets a bright idea to search the web to look for any apps that can help him make friends easier and lose the social anxiety by having to find people with similar interests to his.

After scrolling through the web with no success, he finally finds an app with potential. Reading through its description he decides to give it a try and downloads it.

Tommy downloaded the Friend Finder app and now has found multiple friends interested in the same things as him and never has to worry about struggling to make new friends when moving to a new location.

After a long week of taking midterm test, it's the weekend and Amy is bored.

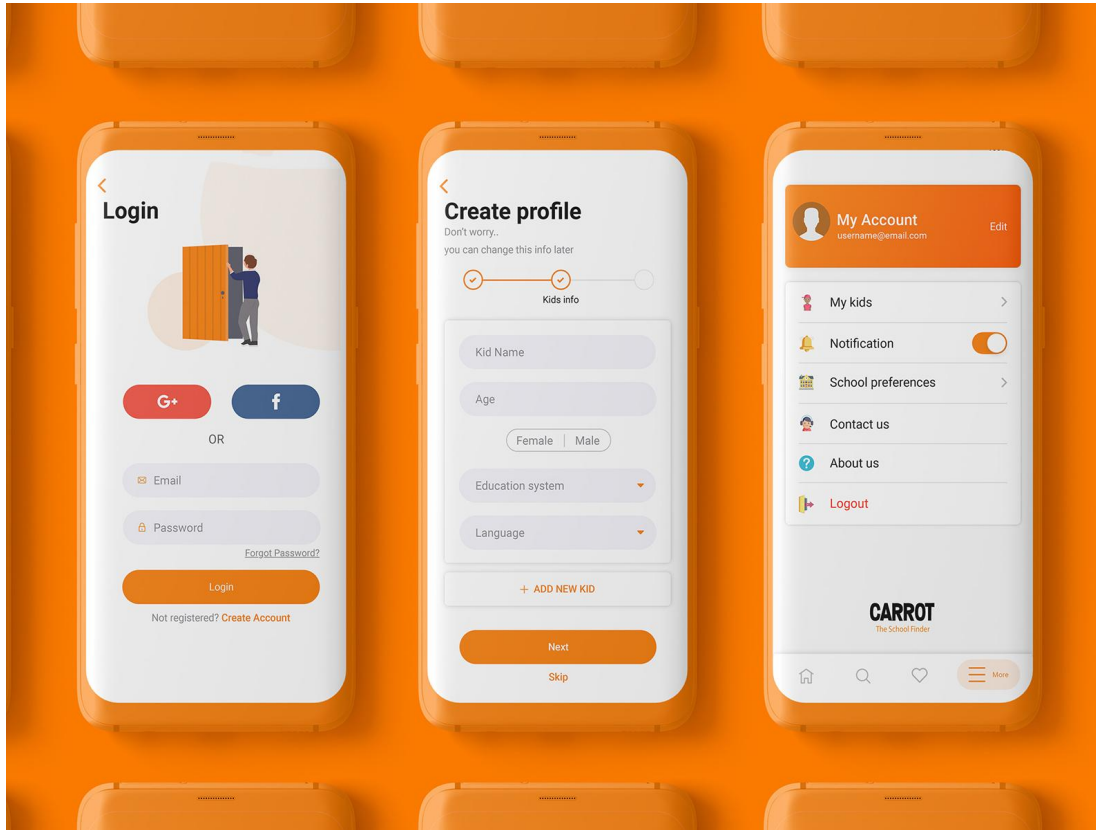

Amy googles “fun things to do on the weekend” but isn’t interested in the results.

Amy remembers seeing an ad for our app 'Friender', so she downloads it

Amy signs up and creates her profile on 'Friender' and finds someone with the same interests as her.

After chatting with her match for a while, Amy and her match decided to go watch the new Star War movie.

Amy had fun using the app last time that she browses the app for things to do with people almost every weekend.

Sean is too busy doing homework to meet anybody

The only time he is not busy is when he eats, but he eats alone because he does not know anybody

In order to counteract this, he looks up how to find people when you are busy and he finds the Friend Finder app.

The app matches him with someone who has similar interests and allows them to come up with a plan to meet during dinner.

He has now made multiple friends through the app and meets up with them during breakfast, lunch, and dinner.
